Water Works

We have all the water there is, all there has ever been, and all there will ever be. No one is making any more of it. Each day there are more people drinking, using, and polluting it. This is a trend that cannot continue indefinitely. If our children and grandchildren are to have pure water, someone has to do something. We cannot depend upon the churches or government to correct this problem. They haven't done it yet.

Regardless of how much technology we may have, our existence upon this earth depends upon six inches of dirt and water. Now for the first time ever, we have reason to be optimistic. Based on our experiences with water since April of 2001, there is reason to believe that in our lifetime we can have better water than our grandparents had. But – you will have to do something.

I would like to share with you some things we have learned that will allow you to make a positive difference in the future of your descendants. Water has a "Spirit" which responds to respect. Lack of respect and greed seem to be the main reason that water has been polluted. We might also add ignorance, because if people really understood the importance of water, then they would treat it with more respect.

You don't have to be real smart to do something, you just have to have determination. Much of what we have accomplished over the past few years, we really didn't know what the outcome would be. We just knew that if we didn't do anything, that nothing would happen, and, if we did something, that something might happen.

I'd like to start the major part of this story in mid-April, 2001. Before that time, we have been energizing water. Mostly to help to make a physical correction to the body or perhaps even an emotional correction or perhaps even to just alter our thinking pattern. How do we do this, and why?

Your body is made up of a great percentage of water. Depending on whom you ask you get a different per cent, so I just don't bother to quote numbers. Water has the capability of being easily programmable. That is, you can implant thoughts into water. And the water seems to hold the thoughts.

We've been fooling with this stuff for years, with some fairly decent results, but on a small scale. We reached a point where we could not just continue on a small scale. We had to do something else. Many times, opportunities come in the way of problems – most of the time, this is the way they come. In April 2001, I was speaking at the Ozark Research Institute in Arkansas and four women came to me and said "There is a big spring about 50 miles from here that we would like to take you to and show to you. It used to be a very pure spring. In fact, water was drawn out of it and bottled and sold all over the country. But it has long since become very polluted and the water there isn't usable any longer."

I knew what they wanted, I just didn't know what to do about it. They took me out there, it is a beautiful spring, roughly 25' in diameter, 25' deep, it produced 38,000,000 gallons of water every 24 hours. It's known as Blue Springs, right north of Eureka Springs, Arkansas. I got a little ways away from these people to think, because I figured – they brought me out here, thinking I could do something. I wished they were right. I started communicating, as best I could, with some of the spirits of the land there. I found that there were some Indian spirits still around that spring. This was on the Trail of Tears where the Cherokee people were marched from Cherokee, North Carolina in to Oklahoma in 1838. About 4,000 or so Indians died along the way. This was on the trail. Some of them were still there. I asked them "Would you like me to take you on over to the Spirit World?" They said "No. What we want you to do is to purify the water." I said: "Yes, that's a good idea. Do you have any good ideas as to how this can be done?" But I didn't get an answer. I thought – maybe what I need to do is to communicate with the water.

I didn't know how I was going to do this, so I took my boots off and I sat there with my feet in there. I realize it's not a normal way to purify water – soaking your feet in it – however, it felt good, and I thought that maybe I can get in contact here and see what will happen.

What I got next – you can say I made it up and you might be right. I prefer to say that the water gave me a message. The message I got was "Everything had a frequency". (Which we already knew, we just had not applied it yet in all the ways that were possible). The message was:

"Scramble the frequency of the pollutants of the water. And adjust them to the frequency of pure water."

We had learned that everything has a frequency. I don't think I found anything yet that does not. The human body has a frequency – there is an ideal frequency for the human body. Only one in several thousand are on that frequency, but there is an ideal frequency for the human body.

Various diseases have frequencies. So do emotions. There's a frequency for love, there's a frequency for hate and fear and depression and joy and happiness and all these things. The good news is: You have the ability to change these frequencies. The human mind has a lot more capability than most people realize. We've done some pretty fair stuff with it, but we have not yet scratched the surface.

Let me simplify this for you. You say "Well, how do you do this?" I use what I call a Dowsing System because I'm a Dowser. I usually use that system because it works. But what if you are not a Dowser? Then, you can say a prayer. I don't think it makes a lot of difference. All that dowsing is – is a way to focus intent. Which is basically what a prayer is. All I ever do, is: Ask. I don't really do anything myself. I "just" ask. You'll get a lot more accomplished in life, if you ask, then you will if you don't ask. So ask.

Whenever this message – I'll use that term – came to me to scramble the frequency of the pollutants of the water, I just took out my pendulum that I always carry in my pocket – now what would I have done if I hadn't had a pendulum? I would have just asked anyway. Since the pollutants are much higher than the frequencies of pure water, the pendulum went in a counter clockwise manner. This is all we did. I probably said a few words of gratitude to the Spirit of the Water, or something to that effect, because that is the way I think. It was all over and I really

...water has a Spirit which responds to

didn't know if we had accomplished anything or not. But I thought I tried and I would rather try and fail than not try at all.

I sought out whom I thought were some of the best dowzers in North America because a lot of them were my friends. And this was the way I framed the question: "Would you do me a favour. Would you go back in time to the 1st of April [2001] and check out Blue Springs, Arkansas. And tell me what is the condition of the water concerning the purity of the water." Now there have been various numbers given, because not all dowzers agree on exactly the same thing – we may read a different scale, we may have a little different way of interpreting things – the numbers were a little different. Not a great deal, but some. The bottom line was: Very Polluted. Now – would you do me one more favour. "Would you move time forward to the first of May [2001], and check the spring again." Every one said: What did you do? The purity is 95-100%.

Okay. So what do we have here? We have a bunch of people who have all swung pendulums in the same direction and arrived at the same conclusion? Does that prove anything? No, but it's pretty decent evidence. Last week, I happened to get an email, from one of the ladies who took me up there and she had bought the spring. And had the water tested by the Nature Conservancy. And they said it was one of the purest springs they had ever tested. 38,000,000 gallons a day worth. What did we do? We just asked. We asked with respect. You get a lot more by having respect. This was what really got us started. We only got the scientific confirmation this past week. But just the dowsing confirmation was enough to give me confidence to start telling people how to do this and to start putting the word out. And people started listening.

I had believed that water had a spirit but learned some more in a recent class at ORI [Ozark Research Institute]. In every class, I tell people they are being given a lifetime supply of energized water. All the people in the class bring a bottle of water and I energize it for them.

ORI was selling drinking water with a red label on it and most of the people had this brand of water. As I was working at raising the energy of the water in all bottles in the room, it became obvious that something was wrong. One person had a blue tinted bottle with a blue label and the Spirit of the Water was not in this blue bottle, and would not go into it. We had to stop and find out why. When I mentioned the problem to the class, Mick Ames, who was a water technician sitting in the front row, was nodding his head and grinning. I then said, "The Spirit of Greed is in this bottle." Mick again grinned and nodded his head. Then I announced, "The company who bottled this blue bottle has a lower integrity than the company who bottled the red labelled bottle." Again, Mick nodded his head – he knew something I didn't. [Mick's email to me is included later in this article.]

Once the Spirit of Greed was removed along with several negative thought forms by the application of dowsing, the Spirit of the Water went into the water and we were able to continue energizing all the water in the room. Walt Woods [Ex-President ASD] was in one of the classes at ORI and when we measured his bottle of water, it was found to be about 800,000 on the Bovis scale, (which measures how positively or negatively charged a substance is). This puzzled me because at other times the water had measured over one million on the Bovis scale. Why didn't Walt's bottle go any higher? Walt determined that a higher energy was not beneficial for him and the energy of the water reached the ideal level for him, and stopped. This taught me to ask for the water to be raised to the most appropriate level for the use of the person, rather than asking to raise it to the highest possible level. At the recent Southwest Dowsing Conference in Flagstaff, the "Spirit of the Water" came through and gave a message to Ellie Drew who then gave it to the class. It confirmed that the Spirit of the Water would not go where there was greed.

We have also found that the attitude of a landowner will affect the condition of the water on the land. In addition, curses on the land will also affect the water.

Ron Barone of South Dakota ordered a bottle of water from the Toronto Dowzers [ECH₂O Water] and tried to test its energy. He called to say that he hadn't been able to do it because his scale of measurement didn't go high enough. He took three drops of the water and put them in a container, which he then filled with filtered water. In five minutes he couldn't test that container of water either. The energy of the second container had apparently risen to match that of the ECH₂O water. My reply was, "You have proved by your methods, what I suspected. I put a thought form in the water to energize all water that it touched to equal that of the original water."

We have discovered that we can put a thought form into the water to cause it to energize all water that comes in contact with the energy field of the water. This was done by sitting a bottle of energized water on a table with a bottle of plain water. The next morning the plain water had an energy equal to the energized water. It has some surprising side effects – my friend Jeannie energized a part of the Atlantic Ocean where she was swimming and 20 dolphins showed up and stayed all day!

How do we purify the water? By using our dowsing system to scramble the frequency of the chemical, biological and radiological pollutants of the water and adjust them to the frequency of pure water. We then put a thought form into the water to cause it to energize all water that comes in contact with its energy field and that the process be repeated continually. "What else?" you ask, "This is so simple." There is nothing else. Simple is what you get when you work with me.

However, we may put in a thought form for a specific correction to be made in our bodies or the bodies of animals. I suspect that this could be used to create a more positive mental attitude in folks. Maybe we could even energize the raindrops and invite in the spirits of respect and compassion so that these characteristics would affect anyone who was within the energy field of the raindrops.

What did we do? We just asked. We asked with respect.

"This is too far out," you say. Well, consider the alternative. You don't want to appear strange to your friends, associates and minister. Well, if you're in mainstream society, you probably wouldn't be reading this. That means you are already different. OK, this is the wonderful thing about dowsing. You don't have to tell anyone what you're doing. You don't need a permit or have to confess it to your priest. JUST DO IT!!!!!!

Here is part of a recent letter from my friend Don Scott of Richmond Kentucky. Don is a retired minister who attended my class and started using the information to help people in his congregation. He has some wonderful successes and here is one of them.

"Hi Raymon,

Just wanted you to know how well the energized water works.

I bought a 20 gallon fish tank in January. I have not been able to clear the water because my tap water is so full of rust and iron. I have stopped drinking or cooking with it. I used the recommended treatment and nothing worked. The fish were dying. The fish were attacking and chasing other fish and I was ready to start all over again with a new batch. Then I spied the bottle of water that we all purified when we dowsed for your water project. I gave each of them a small jar with tap water in it from the church to douse after we dowsed to purify the water around the globe. I looked up all the pollutants on the internet to name them specifically so we would not miss any. I gave them a dropper with the instructions to use this to purify the tap water they use at home. I put a dropper of water in the 20 gal. tank. I sat down and read my mail and in about an hour I happened to glance over at the tank. The water was crystal clear, the fish were swimming lazily around the tank and not attacking other fish. No more fish have died. It is still clear as a bell and I just sit and marvel over it. Your Friend, Don."

And from Mick Ames – "While attending the August 2003 Power of Thought school in Fayetteville, I had an opportunity to do a water test on two different samples of energized water. At that time I was a water technician for a company installing a line of whole-house water softeners and purifying systems for drinking water, and had the testing kit at my disposal. One of the samples had been altered by Raymon Grace at Sunday's class. Originally this had 8 grains of hardness per gallon. Sunday night I tested the samples and found that the water energized by Raymon now shows no hardness present. No precipitation test was performed, as I saw no need for it."

And from Cherly, his wife, I received this email "In your class on Sunday (which so inspired me I came back Tuesday as Mick did) I vowed to not let this fall by the wayside. I have been washing my 14 yr old dog's eyes and giving her and my other pets the energized water. Her hearing was shot and she could barely see dark and light, an unfortunate symptom of her age. Besides getting around much more energetically, I notice the cataract cloud on her eye is thinning and the other eye looks less irritated (dry eye syndrome). I scrambled the frequencies of blindness and adjusted those to the frequency for her better good. It will come as no surprise to you, but she is a bit confused these days as her sight is returning and her hearing is improving daily. Oh, I have introduced the energized water to the swimming pool and hot tub at the rec. center here in Bella Vista. It is a retirement area, and highly used by the older crowd. I am visiting daily to check chemical levels and over-all effect on swimmers."

A common excuse used by many is that, "I'm only one person and my efforts wouldn't amount to much." Maybe so, but enough raindrops become a flood.

Whilst I am not in the same dowsing class as Raymon Grace, I do hope to be one day. I have had the pleasure of experiencing Raymon's work first hand including his assistance when one of our company's software engineers was brutally bashed and left for dead in October last year. Raymon used the same basic frequency scrambling techniques outlined here to make Conscious Water on "Our Kenny" as we affectionately call him. Raymon scrambled the frequencies of brain damage and trauma and adjusted them to the appropriate frequency for total recovery. Our Kenny was out of intensive care four days later and back at work writing java script (no mean feat at the best of times) a month after the accident. He was not expected to live and the doctors are still amazed at his 'miraculous' recovery. Whether it was luck, the whole mob of us praying, Raymon's help, the love of Kenny's family and friends, his will to survive or a combination, I don't know, but I do know if we do something, something will happen and it did.

At the International Congress last year, the Water workshop participants joined me in working on a few bores using Raymon's water clearing system. One of the bores, that I had referred to in the Sept. 03 Editorial had been my nemesis (Harkiss') and secondly one from another Farmer who needed help with a pre-existing bore that I wasn't responsible for marking the spot with an X (Ronda's). I promised to inform the participants of the results and indeed the first bore has decreased its chloride content (responsible for the salt taste) by about one third, leaving the scientifically-trained farmer quite puzzled to say the least; the second has also shown measured chemical changes and certainly tastes better but we're not quite there yet for full usability. However, neither of these bores have been actively pumped since our 'work' so the samples were from the static head, certainly not ideal, but no one will waste even bore water in our current parched conditions out here. Do I think we made any difference? Yes I do, and through practice I intend to work at it until it's a respectful but routine procedure just like map dowsing is now used to complement site dowsing.
